

Response Plan Review - Public Notice (Web Page)

Under the Public Health Emergency Preparedness (PHEP) Grant, the Fairfield Department of Health (FDH) is required to notify the public on emergency planning activities.

The Fairfield Department of Health Emergency Response Plan and its annexes describe health department activities in response to natural and manmade disasters, terrorist incidents, and infectious diseases.

All emergency response plans are reviewed, exercised and updated in such a manner that they are consistent with local, regional, state and federal regulations, standards and policies.

Plan reviews are an ongoing process throughout the year. For more information on the process or what plans are currently under review, please contact:
